

Who we are

The Association of Communication Experts is... an international network with offices around the world. Together we deliver international campaigns that combine consistent messaging with local relevance.

Our Targets

We want to

- improve PR and Marketing methods and develop Best Practices to serve our clients in the best way we can
- promote the exchange of ideas and visions within the PR community and create an ongoing dialogue with international clients

How we work

Few Overheads, flexible budgets

Since the associated agencies operate in a similar way, we can offer excellent quality and sensible pricing:

We only work with experienced people. However big or small a client budget is, communication programmes are handled by a senior consultant.

We are highly motivated. We care a lot about how satisfied our clients are. If you need something urgently, we deliver.

We are flexible. If you need additional resources quickly or want to scale back budgets, we adopt to your individual situation.

Because we work with many specialists, we can provide experts for individual projects. You only pay for them while you need them and take advantage of their expertise.
